Join us with the Loo Roll Art Challenge!

Wondering what to do with all those gorgeous little blank canvases clogging up your recycling bin? Why not turn them into art. Post your creations tagging #Pinkfootloorollchallenge It doesn't matter if you're not creative, it can be anything, graffiti, cartoons, expressions of rage, love, boredom, frustration...we could go on but we'd love to see some artists have a go too and children please - let your creative mind explode! EDP 24 North Norfolk Living Magazine BBC News Jeremy Vine @BBCRadio2 Red Hare Publishing Ltd BBC Breakfast

...so, we're all stuck indoors and might be getting a little bored. Time to get your creative hat on!

Hopefully your household successfully got some toilet roll before it was all brought up!

The PINKFOOR GALLERY have set a fun challenge for you to let your inner artist shine.

With some very basic equipment you can give this challenge a go, maybe even challenge your family to get involved too.

You can follow the hints and tips below or free-style it!

When you're finished you can submit your masterpiece to the collection by simply adding the hashtag

#pinkfootloorollchallenge

*There is a spelling mistake in the original Pinkfoot Gallery poster, the above hashtag is spellt correctly!

Hints & Tips

- 1. You will need:
- Loo roll
 - Basic drawing or painting equipment
 - Possibly an image for inspiration

- 2. If you are struggling for inspiration then you could find an image on the internet or in a book to copy.

Once you've got an image in mind, you can draw/paint it straight on to the loo roll or you could draw a light / rough guide to what you want to draw before starting.

- 3. Don't forget this is a three-dimensional piece of art, your drawing / painting should stretch at least two thirds of the way around, if not all the way around! Consider your full composition before you start.

- 4. Don't forget to be resourceful...even with a basic biro pen you can apply tone and shade with cross-hatching. If you want to paint but don't have any paints, what about using tea / coffee for staining or use food colouring?

- 5. Above all...have FUN & ENJOY!
